Personalized Grief Support via Text Message

Grief can be lonely. Grief.Coach sends personalized text messages to help you stay connected and supported as you grieve, even from a distance. You'll receive text messages an average of twice a week, and have the option to stop and start your messages at any time. The tips, resources and reminders you'll receive are drawn from hundreds of books, podcasts and publications, along with expert contributors.

Through Grief.Coach, you can add up to four friends or family members who will also receive texts including reminders and tips for how they can support you during this 13 month period.

About Goldstein Family Grief Center
